Diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream

This leaflet will answer some of your questions about using diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream to treat your anal fissure. Please read this leaflet carefully before you start using the cream. We recommend keeping the leaflet in a safe place as you might need to refer to it again. This information is not intended to replace your doctor’s advice. If you have any questions or concerns, please speak to a doctor or nurse caring for you. This leaflet should be read with any information from the medicine manufacturer.

What diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream is used for
It is used to promote the healing and reduce symptoms of an anal fissure. An anal fissure is a tear in the skin of the lower half of the anal canal (back passage). Symptoms can include severe and sharp pain, irritation and tenderness.

Certain fissures might heal quite quickly, but others can take several months to heal.

Diltiazem hydrochloride works by relaxing the muscle around the anus (the anal sphincter). This reduces pressure and increases blood flow to the area to allow healing to occur.

Taking an unlicensed or ‘off-label’ medicine
Diltiazem is licensed in the UK for the treatment of angina and hypertension, and is available as tablets and capsules to be taken orally (by mouth). It is not licensed for the treatment of anal fissure, however doctors have found that diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream works well to treat anal fissure.

The leaflet, Unlicensed Medicines – A Guide for Patients, has more information about unlicensed or 'off-label' medicines. If you would like a copy, please ask your doctor, nurse or pharmacist. Alternatively, you can call the pharmacy medicines helpline (details at the end of this leaflet).

Before starting treatment

- are you pregnant or breastfeeding?

How to use diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream

- Wash your hands before and after you use the cream to ensure hygiene is maintained.
- Put about 2-2.5cm (1 inch) of the cream on your finger.
- Apply the cream just inside and around your anus as instructed by your doctor. A finger covering such as cling film, disposable glove or finger cot can be used to apply the cream (you can get finger cots from a local pharmacy or surgical supplies retailer).
- Use the cream two times a day (morning and evening) or as directed by your doctor.
- Try to make sure you have opened your bowels (had a poo) before using the cream. This is so that the cream can be in contact with the rectal tissue for as long as possible.

Please note: This product is for external use only. DO NOT take it by mouth.

How long diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream should be used for

Your doctor will let you know how long you should continue treatment for. In most cases this will be 6-8 weeks. If your symptoms have not resolved during this time, you might need to go back to your doctor for a further review.

How you can get more cream

Diltiazem hydrochloride 2% cream treatment usually lasts 6-8 weeks. As it has an expiry of 4 weeks once it has been opened, the hospital will supply you with 2 tubes to allow you to complete the course. If your symptoms have not resolved after the course is complete, you should go back to your GP for a review, unless you have a follow-up hospital appointment already booked.

Side effects

All medicines have side effects which affect some people who take them. The most common side effects (which occur in less than one out of every 10 patients) are:

- headaches – these will usually be mild and can be treated with simple painkillers (such as paracetamol). If the headache does not resolve or is unpleasant, please consult your pharmacist or doctor.
- light-headedness or dizziness, especially when getting up from a sitting or lying down position. If you begin to feel dizzy, sit or lie down until the feeling passes.
- local itching, soreness or rectal bleeding.

Speak to your doctor or pharmacist if any of the above side effects continue or become troublesome, or if you experience any other symptoms which you think might be due to this medicine.
